

Chapter 1

INTRODUCTION

Delhi is an old city that has slowly expanded over the years to acquire its present status of metropolis. According to census 2011, the total population of Delhi was 167.53 lakh spread over an area of 1483 Sq. km. The population density of Delhi was 11297 persons per Sq Km. in 2011, which is the highest in India amongst all states and Union Territories. People come from all over India for livelihood and settle in Delhi being the economic hub for development. Only 2.5% of the population resides in rural areas making it a predominantly urban conglomeration (Source: Census-2011).

In Delhi, health care facilities are being provided by both governmental & non-governmental organizations. Besides, local self governance agencies such as Municipal Corporations of Delhi, New Delhi Municipal Council and Delhi Cantonment Board are instrumental in delivery of health care facilities in their respective areas. Various agencies of Government of India such as Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, CGHS, ESI, Railways are also providing health care to general public as well as to identified beneficiaries. Amongst the government organizations, Directorate of Health Services (DHS) of Government of NCT of Delhi is the major agency related to health care delivery.
